This question paper consists of two sections. Section A and Section B. Answer both sections.

Section A: Directed Writing

[35 marks]

[Time suggested: 45 minutes]

Obesity has been on the rise, with more young people becoming obese. Your school has decided to launch a 'Health Week' campaign to raise awareness among students about the need to be more health conscious. As the chairperson of the organising committee, you have been asked to give a talk.

Use the notes below to write your talk.

Reasons	Suggestions
<ul><li> Improper eating habits</li><li> Eating too much junk food</li></ul>	<ul><li>Exercise – 3 times a week</li><li>Reduce food intake</li></ul>
<ul> <li>Too many calories</li> <li>Lack of exercise</li> <li>Lazy lifestyle</li> </ul>	<ul> <li>Reduce sugar and fat intake</li> <li>Change eating habits</li> <li>Have fixed time for eating</li> <li>Eat small meals</li> </ul>

When writing your talk, you should remember to:

- greet the audience
- state the purpose of your talk
- use all the notes given
- give your own ideas when needed
- end your talk appropriately

Note:

For your talk, you will receive up to 15 marks for the format and content points, and up to 20 marks for the quality of your writing.

A very good morning to Puan Veronica Nathan, headmistress of SMK Taman Permata, teachers and fellow students. As you are aware, our school is organising a 'Health Week' to raise awareness among students about the need to be more health-conscious. Obesity has been on the rise among young people.

There are many reasons why young people are obese. Firstly, improper eating habits cause one to be obese. Eating too much fast food or junk food such as potato chips, fries and crackers in between meals is the reason why many youngsters are putting on weight nowadays. All these food contain extra calories that are not needed by the body and thus are stored as fat.

In addition, most young people dread exercising. They prefer to hang out in shopping malls and Internet cafes. Without proper exercise, they do not work off the extra fat stored and thus become overweight. Furthermore, in most homes, there are maids to do the housework. Young people tend to be lazy. They tend to be less active and lose extra weight slower or not at all.

SPM Model Test 2

However, there are many ways for a person to lose weight. Here are some suggestions. Exercise is the key to losing weight. You should exercise at least three times a week in order to burn extra fat that is stored in your body. The easiest exercise you can do is brisk walking. Walking is simple, easy and cheap.

You will also have to reduce the intake of food. In addition, lowering the intake of food that is high in sugar such as sweets, cakes, chocolate and carbonated drinks will help you lose weight.

Lastly, changing eating habits will help you control your weight. Eating a lot of vegetables and fruit instead of junk food helps to reduce your weight. Eating three meals a day at a fixed time will also help you to lose weight. Alternatively, instead of having three meals a day, you can have five small meals a day so as not to feel hungry.

Before I conclude, I hope my talk has been helpful. I hope you have gained some insight into the problem of obesity among young people and learnt ways to control your weight.

Thank you.

Questions 26 – 31 are based on the following passage.

- 1 The Malaysian Mental Health Association (MMHA) was formed by a group of mental health professionals and community leaders from the then Universiti Hospital, now known as University Malaya Medical Centre. The association is a non-profit voluntary organisation which is managed by an elected committee of interested persons and professionals in the community.
- 2 Formed in 1967, MMHA has been providing a number of services to help the mentally 5 ill cope with their problems and lead a normal life. The association offers, among others, the Illness Management Recovery (IMR) programme.
- 3 According to the association's president, this programme, which started in December 2007, is a psycho-social education programme following a semi-structured programme aimed at helping clients to understand their mental condition and teach them methods to cope with 10 distressing symptoms such as stress.
- 4 She said that clients will learn how to communicate and verbalise their problems, to be compliant with their medications, to recognise and report relapsing symptoms and to set goals for socialising and returning to work.
- 5 She further adds that the programme also aims to restore them to a socially functional 15 state so that they can return to work or their daily lives. This approach, she says, has been very successful in the United States, especially in the east coast states, Scandinavian countries, Japan, Hong Kong and Singapore. Currently, the association has 18 clients under this programme and a few have returned to work since participating in the programme six months ago.
- 6 The association started operations in a rented premise but since 2000 they have acquired 20 a single-storey bungalow in PJ Old Town. The centre has three full-time rehabilitation officers who assist and support clients in their recovery.
- 7 Due to public perception about mental illness, she advises the public not to make fun of mental patients. She further adds that with proper treatment, medication and care, the mentally ill can be like other people.
- 8 Most of the clients at the center suffer from schizophrenia but there are some who suffer from depression and obsessive-compulsive disorders. When they first joined the association, these clients lacked the understanding about their illness, were not able to work or find a job. Some of the problems they faced were due to lack of education and skills which were partly contributed by their illness. Therefore under the IMP programme, the association works with the clients to 30 tackle their problems so that they can cope better with their illness.
- 9 According to the president, the association also provides day-care programmes where a trained occupational therapist visits the centre twice a week to work with several groups namely the Family Education Programme, Depression Support Programme, Public Education Programme and Mental Health Campaigns.
- 10 Currently, the association has clients mainly from the younger age group; late teens and those in their 20s and 30s. The centre also has a capacity for about 30 people.

What Has Happened to Lulu?
What has happened to Lulu, mother? What has happened to Lu? There's nothing in her bed but an old rag-doll And by its side a shoe.
Why is her window wide, mother, The curtain flapping free, And only a circle on the dusty shelf Where her money-box used to be?
Why do you turn your head, mother, And why do the tear-drops fall? And why do you crumple that note on the fire And say it is nothing at all?
I woke to voices late last night, I heard an engine roar. Why do you tell me the things I heard Were a dream and nothing more?
I heard somebody cry, mother, In anger or in pain, But now I ask you why, mother, You say it was a gust of rain.
Why do you wander about as though You don't know what to do? What has happened to Lulu, mother? What has happened to Lu?

34 The following are the novels studied in the literature component in English Language.

Sing to the Dawn – Minfong Ho Captain Nobody – Dean Pitchford Dear Mr. Kilmer – Anne Schraff

Using the details in the novel you have studied, write about an event that shows a character's bravery. Provide evidence from the text to support your answer.

[15 marks]

(Suggested answer)

In the novel, "Dear Mr Kilmer", a character who is brave is the main character, Richard Knight. He shines in an event when his courage is put to the test. This happens when Richard is the only one in his class to sign the card to express their regret for the Schermers. Hannah Schermer and her family are of German heritage living in Turtle Lake, where the Schermers own a tavern. The people are not too happy as they are Germans because America was then at war with Germany in Europe. So they go on a rampage and paint the tavern with unpleasant words. The citizens fail to see that the Schermers are American citizens who are loyal to the country.

Richard is able to see the situation Hannah was in and rises to the occasion. When their English teacher, Mrs Hansen, comes up with an idea of the card to show their support for the Schermers, the rest of the class refuses to sign it. Only Richard is brave enough to put his name on the card. He goes a step further by writing a short message on the empty card to express his regret at the unfortunate incident. He then volunteers to deliver it to Hannah. However, Richard has to face the wrath of two classmates, Abner Lewis and Harry Carver. The boys taunt him as 'a Hun lover', but this only fires up his determination to support the Schermers.

Thus, this event demonstrates Richard's bravery in standing up for his beliefs. He shows courage not to be pressured in following his classmates' actions. He is a true friend who is ready to stand by Hannah in her hour of need. His actions also illustrate his compassionate nature. It takes a great amount of courage to not follow the crowd. Richard proves that he is a kind, gentle and brave boy.
